

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

DATE July, 2008
TITLE/RANK Open
DEPARTMENT Family and Child Studies
DESCRIPTION

Tenure-track faculty position, open rank. Appointment includes teaching and advising students in a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in Family and Child Studies and participating in curriculum development. Faculty members are expected to be active scholars, and to participate in departmental, college, and university committees and activities. Faculty member will play a role in the continuing development of this relatively new department, which includes a planned Ph.D. program.

QUALIFICATIONS

Earned doctorate in Family and Child Studies or closely related area and college level teaching experience. Candidates must demonstrate a well-defined research agenda and evidence of scholarly activities appropriate to the rank sought. Desired areas of expertise include but are not limited to: family policy, family diversity, family relations, Child Life Specialist, the hospitalized child, and gerontology. The department and the College of Education and Human Services are committed to student and faculty diversity and value the educational benefits that derive from such diversity. We are seeking candidates who demonstrate the ability to work collaboratively in and with socially, culturally, and economically diverse communities; have a commitment to education for social justice, democratic practice, and critical thinking; and are interested in addressing issues of diversity in research, teaching, and curriculum development.

SALARY RANGE Salary dependent upon qualifications.
